Have a goal for your house deposit amount

The best way to save for your house deposit is to know your end goal - the house deposit you need before buying your dream property.

Once you know the kind of property you are looking for, research the area where you would like to purchase your first home and find properties for sale with similar features.

Looking at the current market will give you a general idea of the purchase price for the kind of property you are looking for and will lead you towards working out your goal deposit.

However, before establishing the goal deposit you need, the next step is determining how much a bank will be willing to lend you and how much you can afford to repay.

Create visual progress towards your goal deposit

Now that you have sorted out your budget, have eliminated all your debts, and have a goal in mind, it's time to create a visual progress board.

Using one of the templates below start to fill out all the details.

Place the board where you will see it every day. It will be a friendly reminder of your goals each morning and incredibly motivating to watch the bar grow each month.

To add even more motivation, print out an example picture of a home you would love to purchase and place next to your house deposit goal amount!
